A conviction was obtained by Inspector Swanston this morning, at the Police Court, before Mr Mitchell-Innes, against a money-changer of Shau-ki-wan who was proved to have uttered a quantity of spurious cash. In ten cents' worth of cash purchased by a messenger sent out for the purpose by the Inspector, twelve per cent. were found to be bad. The money-changer was fined fifty cents for each spurious coin amongst those purchased by the Police luspector.

THE Singapore Free Press says the moral to be drawn from the proceedings of the Straits Government in connection with the carriage of deck passengers from the Treaty Ports of China to Singapore seems to be that such matters should be discussed in the Legislative Council, as questions peculiarly within the knowledge of the unofficial members, and that although Orders in Council under such an Ordinance emanate from the Executive Council, that it would be well, if wisdom were sought in the lar-187 ger number of councillors.

> THE N.-C. D. News reports the case of a Chinese bill collector in British employ having been assaulted, and arrested by lekin runners in the British Settlement at Shanghai and carried off into the native City, where he is still detained. A man said to have been one of the lekin runners was accested and taken before the French Consul, but the Consul was of opinion that a conviction could not be supported. The employer of the bill collector has applied to the British Consul, who has reported the affair to the British authorities at Peking. It is asserted by the lekin runners that the man was arrested in the City.

THE North China Desk Hong List for 1886; a copy of which has been forwarded to us by the publishers, the North China Herald office, differs in no material respect from its predecessors. Who's Who again occupies the principal portion of the book, and the hong lists for Foochow and all the open ports north of that settlement, and Corea also form a very useful portion of the work. The general information in the book regarding the customs tariff, trade regulations, the diplomatic services, events connocted with China, Chinese officials, weights and measures, postal and telegraph rates, is as varied, useful and carefully compiled as is wont, and the issue may be classed among the best turned out under this title. A lengthy ladies' list forms part of the

This morning a seaman named Herman Heinze, on board the British barque Ema, was charged before Capt. R. Murray Norden, January 26; Pandora, Abstara, Rumsey, Acting Harbour Master, with having assaulted James Goodin, a black OMEWARD BOURD : - Denbighshire, Jan- cook, on Saturday evening. It appeared uary 28 : Hector, Feb. 2; Claymore, from the statements of the men that Heinza had been 'growling' about one of his messmates not having had his share of tea. Goodin heard the growls, and gooded Heinze on to an open quarrel by calling him a 'chuckle-headed coward.' They then had a fair fight outside the forecastle, greatly to the amusement of the assembled crew, and Goodin seems to have got the worst of S. S. Strathlever, from New York, the encounter. Captain Somers, the master of the barque, who was called as a witness, said is was not on board when the row occurred. His Worship decided that both men were equally at fault and dismissed the summons.

THE particulars of the case of the boy Ching

Ashing, who sued Mr James Smith, foreman carpenter of Kowloon Dock, for $5.80 for wages alleged to be due to him, will be readily remembered, as also doubtless the peculiar decision given by Mr Mitchell-Innes, when Mr Smith, at the advice of Justice Russell, instituted a charge of the Police Court against his servant for unlawfully apprepriating two legs of mutton and one goose worth $4.16. It now appears that after the magistrate's decision had been given, which mulcted the Chinese boy for a sum corresponding to the amount he claimed. Ching Ashing, accompanied by Mr Smith, repaired to the Sopreme Court and asked for a decision on the original case. He was, however, reminded that that case had been adjourned for a week, and that if he wished his claim reconsidered he must reappear then. It will be interesting to know, in view of the magistrate's decision. what will be the issue of the original claim

Messes Birloy, Dalrymple & Co., agents of the British North Borneo Co., send us a neatly-printed little pamphlet containing a general description, of the timber of North Borneo, and a specific enumeration of the qualities of the various kinds to be exhibited at the Colonial Exhibition in London this year. From the pamphlet we learn that the forest trees of North Borneo amount to about 78 known kinds. Many of them are of great height, and are often over 100 feet to the first branch. Some of them are particularly handsome, and have been named Borneo mahogany, walnut, coder and iron wood. The samples sent to | The Moroury Libel case was down to be the exhibition are sixteen in number, and include specimens of the Billian, or iron hai, on the 12th instant, before Chief fied and giving their opinion that this was wood, which is stated to be perfectly proof (these are the words used) against the Teredo, or sea worm; the Mirabou, a appeared for the plaintiff, a Portuguese further report should be made by the Rewood which is said to be ant-proof, takes on a fine polish and resembles Spanish Mahogany; the Rusak, which withstands insects well, and the Gagil, also ant-proof. These woods when they become better known ought to have a large sale in this . part of the world, where the ravages of insocts are very severe.

A SOMEWHAT unusual case came before the Chief Justice in Original Jurisdiction the Supreme Court this morning, in the hearing of which the Attorney General, who appeared for the plaintiff, found that he had reckoned without his host and that the tables were rather awkwardly turned on him. The case in question referred to an application by Too Wing, who claimed $10,000 as damages from Ho Win Kiu for alleged trespass committed by the defendant or by some person acting under his direction about the 28th Nov. 1885. charge in the matter of a British versus British Colonies like the Straits and Hongkong, we ought to have a metallic currency our owo, as in India; and that the fact our being indebted to a low-class Government like that of Mexico for the bulk of our circulating medium, besides showing a painful lack of enterprise on the part of the British Government, brings many disadvantages in its train.

Mexican coinage is thoroughly bad every respect. The machinery of the mints is of the most primitive character, and amount of pure silver in each dollar is unwretched as this Moxican coinage le. cannot count upon absolute regularity of the supply. Mexican politics are of a very second-rate character; civil war is never mexpected thing, and before now a volution has entirely stopped the sur Moxican dollars, creating a dollar famine and putting us to great inconvenience in the Straits and China.

f the Mexican Dollar is the facility which respectable imitations of it can be made. The number of counterfeit Bierisent moment is unpleasantly large, false coiners seem to be having a fine time it at the expense of the public.

But independently of all these draw. perous British Colonies such as the Suaits and Hougkong, the coinage ought to be Queen's coinage, and not that of a trivial foreign nationality.

We want the native population clearly ects, and a very easy method of impressing this upon them would be the circulation of dollars bearing the impression of the Queen's head, throughout the length and breadth of our possessions.

In addition to the gain of prestige thus attainable by the institution of a British dollar, we should secure regularity of supply and uniformity of the silver price of the coin; while the superiority and finish of such a dollar as Tower Hill could turn whole range of classic history. The out would almost free us from loss through false coming.
